Introduction. In the context of globalization, the correct and accurate transmission of religious knowledge has become one of the most important scientific and social tasks. In particular, understanding Islamic concepts and terms correctly plays a vital role in shaping a healthy religious worldview in society. Many Islamic terms originate from the Arabic language and are sometimes used incorrectly or superficially in everyday speech. Therefore, the need to form a comprehensive Islamic terminology dictionary has emerged. The purpose of this article is to analyze the scientific, educational, and social importance of forming an Islamic terminology dictionary.

Methods. The following research methods were used in the study: Analysis and synthesis method – to study and generalize the meanings of Islamic terms; Comparative method – to compare Arabic Islamic terms with their Uzbek interpretations; Source analysis method – based on the Qur'an, Hadith, fiqh, aqidah sources, and modern research; Descriptive method – to explain the role of terminology in education and society.

Results. The research results show that forming an Islamic terminology dictionary leads to the following outcomes:

1. Scientific accuracy is ensured through unified interpretations of terms.
2. The quality of religious education improves with reliable reference materials.
3. The national language is enriched through proper translations and explanations.
4. Misunderstandings related to religious concepts are reduced.

Discussion. The findings indicate that forming an Islamic terminology dictionary is not limited to religious studies but is also closely linked to social stability and spiritual education. Incorrect interpretations of religious terms may lead to ignorance or social problems. Therefore, cooperation between linguists, religious scholars, and specialists is essential in compiling such dictionaries.

In the future, developing Islamic terminology dictionaries in digital formats, mobile applications, and online platforms would increase their accessibility and effectiveness.

Conclusion. Forming an Islamic terminology dictionary is essential for accurate religious understanding, improving educational quality, enriching the national language, and maintaining a healthy religious environment in society. Such a dictionary serves as an important resource for researchers, educators, and the general public.
